Management Discussion of Fund Performance

Results of Operations

For the six-month period ended June 30, 2017, the NBI Jarislowsky Fraser Select Balanced Fund's Advisor Series units returned 1.14% compared to 3.00% for the Fund's blended benchmark. The broad-based indices, the FTSE TMX Canada Universe Bond Index (CAD) and the S&P/TSX Capped Composite Index (CAD), returned 2.36% and 0.74% respectively. Unlike the indices, the Fund's performance is calculated after fees and expenses. Please see the Past Performance section for the returns of all of the Fund's series, which may vary mainly because of fees and expenses.

The Fund's net asset value rose by 10% over the period, from $176.7 million as at December 31, 2016 to $194.8 million as at June 30, 2017.

Certain series of the Fund, as applicable, may make distributions at a rate determined by the manager. This rate may change from time to time. If the aggregate amount of distributions in such series exceeds the portion of net income and net realized capital gains allocated to such series, the excess will constitute a return of capital. The manager does not believe that the return of capital distributions made by such series of the Portfolio have a meaningful impact on the Fund's ability to implement its investment strategy or to fulfill its investment objective.

The increase stemmed mainly from unit purchases by investors in the Fund.

Regarding fixed income, bond markets posted gains since the beginning of the year in several regions of the world, despite two key rate increases by the U.S. Federal Reserve and a change in rhetoric from some of the world's major central banks in June. Against this backdrop, bond performance was mixed in terms of region and issuer credit quality. Emerging market bonds, high-yield bonds and Investment grade corporate bonds were among the best performing issues. However, the bonds of several European countries (except Portugal) and the Asia/Pacific region (Japan, China and South Korea in particular) displayed the least lucrative performances.

In Canada, the FTSE TMX Canada Universe Bond Index ended the period on a positive note, with longer-term bonds outperforming those with shorter maturities. Provincial and municipal bonds performed better than corporate and federal bonds. Among corporate bonds, the Infrastructure and Energy sectors outperformed, as did A-rated issues. The Financials sector and investment grade issuers rated AAA/AA, on the other hand, posted modest returns.

Canadian equities displayed a lackluster showing in the first half of the year, as the S&P/TSX Composite Index closed the period with modest gains. Small-cap equities also faced a series of headwinds, pulling back over the first six months of the year. While the year had started off quite well, rising uncertainty surrounding the North American Free Trade Agreement helped reverse the gains the Canadian equity market had achieved at the onset of the period.

On a positive note, some sectors performed very well, particularly Utilities, Industrials, Consumer Discretionary and Information Technology.

Given this context, the Fund failed to keep up with its benchmark due in part to the allocation effect. The negative tone came from the fixed income component of the Fund underperforming, in relative terms, over the first six months of 2017. The Energy sector's weak performance also hindered returns for the Fund.

Regarding the Fund's equity component, both Canadian and U.S. holdings within the Fund generated positive returns. Positive contribution to performance came from the Health Care positions within the Fund, with names like Bayer AG and Becton Dickinson.

The fixed income component of the Fund has duration pegged at seven years and three months, while the equity exposure of the Fund is overweight Industrials, Information Technology, Health Care and Consumer Staples.

Recent Developments

Regarding the Fund's key transactions in fixed income, positions were initiated in Anheuser-Busch Inbev and Government of Canada bonds. Throughout the same period, the Fund also exited several names including Molson Coors International LP., Toronto Dominion Bank, Westcoast Energy Ltd., Bank of Nova Scotia, AltaGas Ltd., Hydro One, Cogeco Cable Inc. and Industrial Alliance.

Within equities, the Fund initiated a position in Roche Holdings Limited American Depositary Receipts (ADR). Positions in BHP Billiton Limited ADR, Corus Entertainment Inc. and Sanofi ADR were liquidated.

Moving forward, the portfolio manager feels that in Canada, investors will be looking at the effect of expected interest rate increases on the housing market in Vancouver and Toronto, but will also consider how the large amount of consumer debt, most of which is at variable rates, affects consumer spending. He cites that the banks are well provisioned, but that there will undoubtedly be some effect on their consumer loan portfolios. In addition, commodity prices, especially oil and natural gas, will have an outsized influence on the performance of Canadian markets.

In the U.S., the Information Technology sector has led the markets in 2017. While the portfolio manager feels this is unlikely to carry on, at least at this pace, he continues to carry a meaningful weight in the sector. How the economy performs in the face of rising interest rates is obviously an important factor to watch.

Allocations to equities, especially foreign, have been near the high end of allowable ranges for a number of years. The portfolio manager has occasionally made slight reductions to lower risk but these have generally been somewhat masked by the relatively strong performance of stocks over subsequent periods. Looking forward, not only are the markets nine years into this bullish phase, but there is also an increasing list of potential challenges that could potentially derail them. Some are fundamental, such as high valuations and rising interest rates, while some are broader in scope and less obvious as to their impact, such as terrorism, travel bans, trade negotiations, geopolitics and elections. Given this, he feels that risk or volatility, therefore, is on the rise.

These include accounting, reporting and portfolio valuation services. The fees incurred for these services are paid to NBT by the Fund manager.

Management Fees

The remainder of the management fees primarily covers investment management and general administration services. Past Performance

The performance of each series of the Fund presented below are calculated as of December 31 of each year. Past performance of a series of the Fund does not necessarily indicate how it will perform in the future.

Annual Returns

The bar charts indicate the performance for each the Fund's series in existence greater than one year during the years shown, and illustrate how the performance has changed from year to year. They show, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on January 1 (or made commencing from the start of the series) would have grown or decreased by December 31 of that year, or by June 30, as applicable.

¹Returns for the period of October 7, 2010 (commencement of operations) to December 31, 2010.

²Returns for the period of September 30, 2014 (commencement of operations) to December 31, 2014.

The net assets per unit presented in the financial statements might differ from the net asset value calculated for fund pricing purposes. The differences are explained in the notes to the financial statements.

² Net assets and distributions are based on the actual number of units outstanding at the relevant time. The increase or decrease from operations is based on the average number of units outstanding over the accounting period. The detailed calculation of the total Increase (Decrease) from Operations as at December 31, 2015 has been adjusted to reflect the proper allocation between the following items: Total revenue, Total expenses, Realized gain (losses) and/or Unrealized gain (losses). ⁴ The net assets value at the end of the 2012 accounting period may differ from the value at the beginning of the 2013 accounting period. Since January 1, 2013, the net assets are calculated in accordance with IFRS. Previously, it was the accounting principles as set out in Part V of the CPA Canada Handbook - Accounting ("Canadian GAAP").

³ The trading expense ratio represents total commissions and other portfolio transaction costs expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net asset value during the accounting period. The trading expense ratio includes, if necessary, the trading expenses from its underlying funds, as described in Article 15.2 of Regulation 81-106. Since calculating an average daily allocation of the trading expenses would take considerable effort, an average monthly allocation has been used instead for the accounting periods prior to 2016.

² Management expense ratio is based on total expenses including sales taxes for the accounting period indicated (excluding commission, other portfolio transaction costs and withholding taxes) and is expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net value during the accounting period.

⁴ The Fund's portfolio turnover rate indicates how actively the Fund portfolio's manager manages its portfolio investments. A portfolio turnover rate of 100% is equivalent to the Fund buying and selling all of the securities in its portfolio once in the course of the accounting period. The higher a Fund's portfolio turnover rate in an accounting period, the greater the trading costs payable by the Fund in the accounting period, and the greater the chance of an investor receiving taxable capital gains in the accounting period. There is not necessarily a relationship between a high turnover rate and the performance of a Fund.
